MEDIA RELEASE

A stronger signal is coming to Alva

Residents of Alva Beach will soon enjoy better mobile phone reception with works in the area due to be completed in coming weeks.

An Optus macro base station will be up and running within weeks due to funding under the Federal Government's Mobile Black Spot Funding.

Member for Burdekin, Dale Last, said the project was important for locals and visitors to the area and welcomed the work.

"This is something I have been fighting for since 2016 so to see the base station switched on will mean a great deal for the people of Alva Beach."

"The contractors have advised the project will be completed in late July or early August and that will mean peace of mind for the residents and anyone who visits Alva."
